of George Dawson In his $10,000 match with Ton.my Rvan. it was reported that Ryan had made a match with Johnny Reagan to box six rounds at 148 pounds for the gate receipts and to take place either in New York or Brooklyn. When this story was first promulgated I doubted its authenticity. I couldn't figure out how Ryan, who is a man of at least ordinary shrewdness and intelligence, would enter into such a condemned idiotic compact. Reagan is no man's mark. He gave Jack Dempsey one of the battles of his life, and since that day on Long Island has grown bigger and stronger, and I think, better in every way. He stood the Nonpareil off for forty-four rounds, succumbing in the forty-fifth after one hour and ten minutes of terrific fighting. That Ryan should consent to meet him at 148 pounds for the gate receipts was, to say the least, surprising. If it had match however, is borne out by the statements contained in the following:

Chicago, Ill. July 18.—Friend Sandy: I am back in Chicago for an indefinite stay. I have no matches on hand and but little prospect of getting any on soon. When I left here six weeks ago I had signed with Dawson for a side bet and of course the largest purse obtainable. We both posted $1,000 as a forfelt. But, as you likely know, he and Billy Madden have both sickened of the contract and in some way got their money down, and now I don't know that they will do. When Dawson's backers refused to put up the stuff for him I told him I would light him for a purse alone, and it mattered little to me how much that might be. But he refused, adding, however, that he would fight me for a $10,000 purse. He might as well said a million. The truth of the whole thing is he doesn't want to fight me, for he knows that I can lick him without ruilling a feather. They took my forfeit at New Orleans last March, but he gets away with his here, and the only way I can ever get even is to get him inside the ropes once more. George Lavigne, whom you met in Dominick O'Malley's office the other day, and young Griffo are matched to fight to a finish here in about two months, and don't you overlook it, the Saginaw Kid will give the new Australian all the fight he wants. I saw Jack Wilkes yesterday and he treated me like a long lost brother.

There is no fight on just now, half so in-

There is no fight on just now, half so interesting to my notion, as that between the little saddle colored Holigonian, George little saddle colored Holigonian, George Dixon, and Eddie Pierce. It comes off just two weeks from Monday night, August 7, at the big cottage on Coney Island's surf-washed shore. While there is a vast deal of speculation going on among the oriental red hots, Dixon, as a matter of course, is almost a universal favorite. The only grounds there is for this, but they be good once is the long list of easy victories. good ones, is the long list of easy victories over presumably the best men the three continents could produce, that stands to the little Rembrandt champion's credit. In the past six years Dixon has made twenty-nine, actual fights, returning the winner in each instance save one, that with Cai McCarthy at Boston in February, 1890, which after seventy rounds of lovely milling terminated in a draw. Why he didn't win here has never been satisfactorily explained. The only other real try-out the boy has had was with Johnny Murphy before the Gladstone club at which Dixon won after forty rounds. came nearer losing this fight than any he has ever had, and Murphy has always claimed that it was the toughest kind of tough luck that robbed him of victory.

Eddie Pierce is one of the little ones not to be sneezed at even by champions, and I look for him to make Dixon extend himself. has but just emerged from the amateur realm, and Johnny Griffin told me in Chi-cago a couple of weeks ago, that Pierce is a high class man, and that if he could meet Dixon at three pounds over the limit of their present agreement, he would beat him sure. They fight at 120 pounds, at which notch Eddie has about already arrived. Griffin, whose heart was broken by a fluke two weeks are, credited to Solly Smith, has always proven to me that he knows what a good man is, and I think, today he is the master of Solly Smith by long odds, and the peer, it not the superior, of Dixon. He said that Pierce would fight as long as he could twitch a muscle, that he was extremely clever and as agile as a French dancing master on his props. On such authority, he must be a worthy antagonist for any of them. Still my faith in the Haligonian is not yet susceptible to any very deteriorating jar.

The Coney Island and Columbian clubs have so many contests booked that it would take a Philadelphia lawyer to keep track of them. The next event at the latter house however, is that between Paddy Smith and young Corbett, Monday evening, July 31, which will be interesting only from the fact that Jim Corbett will be behind his Cali-fornia protege and Denver Ed Smith behind his inflammatory complexioned brother. As a "curtain raiser" for this event Henry Baker and Con Riordan will thump each other for ten rounds and whatever else they can get out of it.

Following this at the same club, on Au-21, comes the featherweight battle between atocky little Johnny Van Heest and young Griffo, the Australian. They are to weigh in at 122 and the contest will be for a $2,500 purse and a side bet of $5,000, George Rose being Griffo's producer and Mike Haley, Van Heest's. When these two hot ones meet the fun will be fast and furious, and judging simply from appearance, and not form, it looks as if Griffo would have way the best of it.

I met the Australian in the office of the Columbian club a week or so ago and had quite a talk with him, and I must acknowledge that in a fighting way I like him very much. He is very talkative and full of pranks as a monkey. He is a black-haired, black-eyed, swarthy looking individual, with a very Dagoish air. He stands a full head over the St. Paul boy, who is only 5 feet 2, and has big muscled arms and the legs of a middleweight on him. He looks much of a marvel to me, and how he is to get down to weight is one of those things I pretend to know nothing about. He says he can accomplish it, though, by hard and incessant work from this out, and he likely can, but to take off adipose and secure firmness of cuticle and solidity of flesh, and gather strength and flexibility of muscle at the same time, is another thing, and I doubt Griffo's ability to Like his fellow countryman, Hughey Namer, Griffo has no business in the feather weight class. If he can accomplish what he says he can he cught to whale Johnny with but little trouble. Together with his height, he is well proportioned every way, with a fight-ing frame out of sight, square shoulders, deep chest, with a thick neck fitting well into the scapular, and a face on him full of the lines of a determined, unrelenting and gamey man. This, however, will be a fight

P. Jay Donahue and Macon McCormick, the sporting peers of the New York Recorder and New York Advertiser, for the past ten days have been ripping the Chicago sporting scribes up the back, not metaphorically, but literally, judging from the way there caustic applications have made the Windy City boys wince. Hugh Keough and Louis Houseman have been sustaining the brunt of the onslaught, and they must be badly wounded or poor subjects in the game badly wounded or poor subjects in the game of give and take, for they haven't uttered a peep yot. P. Jay and Macon are a brace of Dromios who are away up right in the dome orth a trip across the country to see.

CHAT WITH THE BOXERS of pugilistic politics, and if you have a little piece to say in regard to these matters, it would be well to have it pat before touching

In scribbling on the subject of the late comers from under the earth, McCormick says: "Isn't it singular that every Austral-ian who arrives in this country is better than his predecessor, according to the story of his backers! Fitzsimmons and Hall were the wonders of the world when they came here, but now we are told that Dan Creedon can do either one of them, and that he will make such short work of Aleck Greggains as will surprise every one. George Dawzon, we are told, is only commosplace alongside Fracey, who, it is averred, can trounce Mysteriou Billy Smith in a jiffy. By the way, I don't believe this. Young Griffo is said to be more of a clown in the ring than lke Weir. He must be funnier than a barrel of monkeys fresh tapped.

Jack Dempsey professes to be surprised a the action of the Coney Island club in de-claring the match between him and Billy Smith off. He would be a good deal more surprised if he could hear the talk of many people who have been heretofore his friends. What they say about him is not altogether complimentary. They didn't want him to fight Smith, but they did want him to act above board and not beat about the bush as he has for months. If he has any good ex-planation to offer he should present it at

And according to Donahue, Joe Harris, the Australian book-maker over here with a string of antipodean fighters, has a good line on puglilists from all parts of the world. He believes Dan Creedon, who fights Alex Greggains before the Columbian club next nth, to be the king pin of middleweights not even barring Fitzsimmons. He thinks Tom Tracey the greatest of welterweights, and he is specially anxious to match Tracey against Fred Morris, "the cyclone," in order to show Americans how good Tra-cey is. As to Napier, all the Australians agree that he is a wonder, even for Australia. They will all go broke on Hugh any time he starts, but they rather despair of getting a start. In the event of Napier not getting on a match, however, they have a lightweight whom they wish to pit against Austin Gibbons. He is Martin Denny, and they assert that Austin drew out being, and they assert that Austin drew out of a match with Denny and they would like to get on another, to be decided at the Coney Island Athletic club. Later reports have it that this latter match has been made.

BARERSFIELD, Cal., July 19.—To the Sporting Editor of The BEE: As I have not paid much attention to my friends in the east of late, I pen you this eletter to show my sentiments and explain my silence, as I have been very busily engaged with the new club here, and have had a most pleasant time in the country I was raised in. There are a great many of my old schoolmates here, who have enabled me to secure and maintain a position in a club that for standing and reliability has few equals in the country. This is the first venture of this kind they have ever made out here, and I am the proud instigator of the same. I fight Williams August 10. A particular friend of mine from Stratton, Neb., went out hunting the other day and was drowned. His body goes east tonight to his home. His name was Laffactte Miller, and he was very popular with the boys.

The Columbia

The Columbian club has matched Solly Smith and George Dixon for $8,000, fight to take place September 8. Also, Johnny Grif fin and Fred Johnson, $5,000, for October.

Dick Moore of St. Paul and George Kessler, the Butte, Mont., wonder, have been matched for a twenty-round contest for $1,000 a side, and the event will probably be one of the future curtain raisers before the Columbian club.

Oh, my, that is a joke. The World's fair commissioners have denied Jay Jay Corbett the right to pose as a freak even, in the Midway Plaisance. It looks very much as if this fellow is to be driven to his rightful occupation-that of a prize fighter. SANDY GRISWOLD.

THE NEBRASKA BREEDERS MEET.

Will Open with the Largest Entry List in the History of the State.
The annual meeting of the Nebraska Association of Trotting and Pacing Horse Breeders opens up at the fair ground's driving park two weeks from Tuesday next, the 8th of August, and continues throughout the 9th, 10th and 11th, with four events each

This meeting will undoubtedly prove the banner meeting of the association, as every thing points to a most flattering success The list of entries, embracing 235 head of the very best horses in the west exceeds that of any previous year both as to quantity and quality. In consequence of this bright outlook the members of the organization all over the state are much elated, and this is a certain guaranty that on the four days named the citizens of Omaha, and the surrounding country, will have an opportunity of witnessing some magnificent sport. J. C. Kesterson, president, of Fairbury, and A. J. Briggs, secretary, of Superior are both pegging away energetically and capidly shaping everything nicely for the big meet. The other officers, D. T. Mount, H. S. Reed and George C. Smith, are also industriously engaged in the same good cause, and with such a body of intelligent and progressive individuals at work it can be relied upon that said work will be done and done well. Every horse owner or horse lover in the state should take a pride in this meeting and leave no stone unturned to achieve an overwhelming success. Nebraska is today in the front rank of the trotting horse dustry, and the eyes of herse owners and horse buyers from the Atlantic to the Pacific are turned this way. This is an almost incredible situation, when you take into consideration that Nebraska was almost an un broken territory twenty-five years ago, and the industry above mentioned has only been receiving the time and attertion of responsible representative men but a comparatvely few years. Now there are hundreds pursuing this laudable avocation and the fair young state is in a position that makes her the envy of the older states who so long held a monopoly in the trotting horse. In world's records Nebraska is well in the van holding a number that are exceedingly flattering to the state's intelligent breeders, and which they appreciate and value beyond computa-

He was timed separately in his fourth heat in 2:12%, being lapped on the winner, and tretted the last half of the mile in 1:04%. Phallas, 2:18%, has stood several years as the fastest fourth heat for stallions. Robbie P's 2:14% is the fastest fifth heat for stallions and 2:16% is the fastest sixth heat. The average time of the six heats is 2:15, the fastest ever made by a stallion, and stamps him as the gamest of trotting stallions in the United States. He is absolutely frictionless in his gait, very handsome, and wore nothing but a pair of scalping boots in his race. His sire, Charles Caffery, by General Knox, dam Rosalind, 2:21%, was brought to Nebraska thirteen years ago by Captain Ed Pyle.

Last year at the fair grounds in this city, while exercising fair grounds in this city, while exercising Newsboy, he was run into by a horse driven the wrong way of the track and out of his position. The blow caused unconsciousness for three hours, and it was thought would unfit the captain for future usefulness in the sulky, but the following week at the state fair found him winning the most races at the fair found him winning the most races at the meeting and having to be assisted in and out of the sulky. Chicago club houses and hotels will make a special rate to the wheelmen. A baggage car will be attached to the train for the wheels especially, so take your wheel along by all means. Lincoln and Omaha will send over the largest delegations, and it is esti-mated that before the train starts fully 300 jolly wheelmen will be ready to embark. Here is a chance to see Zimmerman, Sanger, Johnson, Bliss, Taylor, Osmond, Tyler and all the speedy ones, Chicago and the big fair all for a very small outlay. Mr. Scannell will be happy to answer all correspond-ence relative to the excursion.

George Waldron, the genial operator at Heyn's gallery, corraled the Tourists out at Hanscom park last Sunday and smiled at them through the lenses of Heyn's biggest camera. It was a numerous and happy crowd of cyclists he looked at too, and of course the photos will be good enes, even if Lieutenant Sancha had forgotten to dye his mustache, so that it would take white, and Hy Fredricksen looked vacantly toward Coffman's station and dreamed of white bulldogs and fat men's races, Captain Potter peeped out from behind his '92 miteage medal and managed to bedim the radiance of the medal's polished face; Deal Wirtz was missed, as also were fifty other good fellows. Where were you, boys? The two "Jacks" and the "Buck" were there, and Lester Holton and his side partners, Billy Schnell and Harry Whitehouse, loomed up in the fore-ground, "Dad" had his old-time grin, the club's president and secretary tried to look dignified and important, Charlie Pegau for-got the bugle, but made up for it by softly whistling the "Turkish Patroi; "Mully" as usual appeared handsome and the other boys did their best. A "snap shot" was taken at the club house before the party left for the park, in order that some of the asso-ciates could be "in it." This year makes the third in succession that the club has posed at Hanscom park for its "annual."
